History, Quality, Value

History

At the Joseph Gnazzo Company, Inc., we combine old-world craftsmanship with the latest technological innovations to bring you the best in architectural restoration.

Each project receives our complete dedication to quality, whether it is the restoration of a building's exterior, the repair of centuries-old masonry, or the ongoing maintenance of a historic landmark.

With each project, our reputation and our family name are on the line. Quality has been our policy for more than 40 years – a policy carved in stone.

From the very first day when Joseph Gnazzo founded our company, he has insisted on quality and craftsmanship.

Our reputation for quality and craftsmanship – along with prompt action – is a hard-earned one, and it has enabled us to become the preferred choice for high-profile projects.

From the State House in Augusta, Maine, to Hartford's beloved Colt Dome, to the restoration of Fort Jefferson in Dry Tortugas, Florida, the Joseph Gnazzo Company has restored a multitude of famous exteriors to their former glory and protected them against further deterioration.

We are proud to have been chosen to preserve some of America's most treasured buildings and monuments.

Quality

Building preservation can be an art and at the Joseph Gnazzo Company, we are privileged to work with highly qualified craftsmen while training the next generation in all areas of architectural restoration. Our craftsmen have many years of rigorous training and experience, and can reproduce virtually any design. We provide ongoing training in the latest techniques and technologies so that we are constantly improving and providing our clients the best service possible.

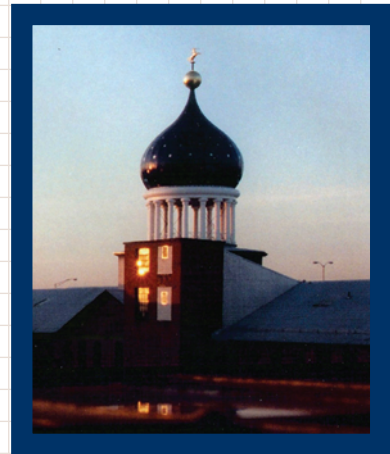

We regularly purchase old stone from demolitions, maintaining an inventory that will be a perfect match for future projects. Whenever possible, we acquire stone from the same quarry that provided the building's original stone. We are meticulous in matching the materials, texture, color, and shape of the original work.

Carved stone is beautiful, but it may be too expensive for some projects. In these cases, our stone repair and casting specialists can create carved stone facsimiles at a much lower cost. The cast reproductions are identical to the originals and are designed to last for many decades.

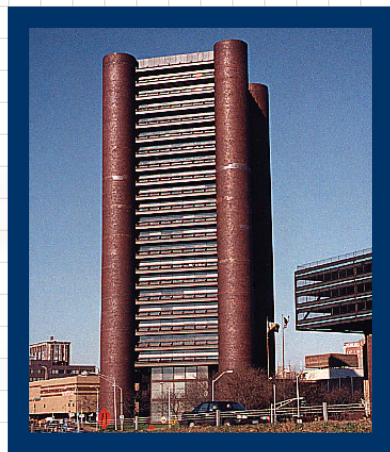

"When you bring in the Joseph Gnazzo Company, your structure will be treated like an architectural masterpiece."
